DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' arguments, filed 11/09/2007, have been fully considered but they are not deemed to be persuasive. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from previous office actions are hereby withdrawn. The following rejections and/or objections are either reiterated or newly applied. They constitute the complete set presently being applied to the instant application.

RESPONSE TO ARGUMENTS

Applicant argues that the amended claims where R is no longer possibly hydrogen and is directed to only methoxy or 3-methyl-2-butenyl and, therefore, are directed to subject matter that is no longer anticipated or obviously rendered by previous reference, JP 2001131050.

Applicants' arguments, filed 11/09/2007, have been fully considered and they are persuasive regarding previous rejections. The rejections based on the reference above are withdrawn.

RESPONSE TO AMENDMENTS

The following rejections have been necessitated by Applicant's newly amended claims.

Election/Restrictions

Newly amended claims 5-6 are directed to an invention that is independent or distinct from the invention originally claimed for the following reasons: the compounds encompassed by claims 1 and 2 can be used in a materially different process. For example, they can be used in collagen synthesis assays.

Since applicant has received an action on the merits for the originally presented invention, this invention has been constructively elected by original presentation for prosecution on the merits. Accordingly, claims 6-7 are withdrawn from consideration as being directed to a non-elected invention. See 37 CFR 1.142(b) and MPEP § 821.03.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 USC 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 2002/0016358 A1 ('358) in view of the abstract for Park et al. ("Chemical Constituents of the Fruit of Citrus junos"; Natural Product Sciences (2000):179-182.).

Determination of the scope and content of the prior art (MPEP 2141.01)

'358 discloses a cosmetic composition in the form of a lotion or cream and having anti-wrinkle properties (abstract) comprising citrus junos (¶ 0035).

Ascertainment of the difference between the prior art and the claims (MPEP 2141.02)

'358 does not expressly disclose a compound encompassed by the formulas in claims 1 and 2, namely, 9-hydroxy-4-methoxypsoralen (i.e., where R is methoxy).

Finding of prima facie obviousness

Park et al. disclose 9-hydroxy-4-methoxypsoralen is a natural component found in citrus junos.

At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to make the claimed invention.

Rational and Motivation (MPEP 2142-2143)

The suggestion/motivation for doing so would have been obvious because a person of ordinary skill in the art has good reason to pursue the known options within his or her technical grasp. If this leads to the anticipated success, then the method is not of innovation but of ordinary skill and common sense. Therefore, it would have been obvious to combine the teachings in each reference to obtain the invention as specified in claims.

It is commonly practiced in the art of topical compositions to optimize the utility of a composition by altering concentrations of its ingredients. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to optimize the topical composition of '358 by altering concentrations of 9-hydroxy-4-methoxypsoralen by altering the concentration of the citrus junos. Unless there is an illustration of criticality of the claimed concentration, the claimed invention of claim 3 lacks patentability.

A reference is good not only for what it teaches by direct anticipation but also for what one of ordinary skill in the art might reasonably infer from the teachings. (In re Opprecht 12 USPQ 2d 1235, 1236 (Fed Cir. 1989); In re Bode 193 USPQ 12 (CCPA) 1976). In light of the forgoing discussion, the Examiner concludes that the subject matter defined by the instant claims would have been obvious within the meaning of 35 USC 103(a). From the teachings of the references, it is apparent that one of ordinary skill in the art would have had a reasonable expectation of success in producing the claimed invention. Therefore, the invention as a whole was prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, as evidenced by the references, especially in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

No claims are allowed.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
